

OCEAN VIEW TRACT.

Los Angeles Times (1886-1922); Jan 4, 1903;

ProQuest Historical Newspapers Los Angeles Times (1881 - 1987)

pg. A1

OCEAN VIEW TRACT.

MUCH DEVELOPMENT NOTED.

The valuable improvements and natural advantages of the Ocean View tract are attracting attention, so much so that other suburban subdivisions near by are being so advertised as to take advantage of the prestige given by its superior methods. The boulevard streets, expensive shrubbery, water piped over streets, and numbers of artistic homes show reasons for profits for owners and investors. The tract is now lighted by electric arc lights. The Whitley hills in this tract have been recently supplied with water at great expense. Another brick block is contemplated, and this and the Lohman Block, Hotel Hollywood, Bank of Hollywood, and Harris & Crandall Block, are business improvements that are substantial and permanent. Hotel Hollywood is now open for guests. E. W. Elliott's drug store, and Harris & Crandall's general store are among the businesses that have recently been opened. Wellington Clark, a city attorney, has lately bought a lot and is making arrangements to build one of the finest residences in the tract. Mrs. Mary C. Stephens, H. C. Haskins, Mrs. B. G. Wortley, Luke Wood, and a number of others also intend building soon. In H. J. Whitley's Home Park tract, improvements keep steady pace, and Mr. Whitley is letting contracts for several more expensive homes.